DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

Claims 1-4, and 6-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Sites et al US Patent Number 6,413,233.

Sites et al discloses a method for removing an agent from a physiological efferent fluid collection site, the method comprising introducing a non-occlusive aspiration element (410, Fig. 2E) to a target aspiration site adjacent the physiological efferent fluid collection site; and activating the aspiration element when the agent is at least predicted to be present is the target site to selectively remove the agent from the physiological efferent fluid collection site (col. 10 line 21); and wherein the aspiration element does not occlude the target site when activated and the removed fluid is not returned to the body; the definition of "selectively removed" in relationship to "not returned to the body" as described by applicant's specification in paragraph 35 includes:

By selectively removed is meant that the subject methods remove fluid from the target site in a manner that selectively or preferentially removes fluid that is at least predicted to include the agent, where the removed fluid is not returned to the body, at least not without processing to remove the target agent present therein.

Sites et al selectively removes body fluid and processes the fluid to remove the target agent therein (col. 14 line 41), and wherein the agent is a therapeutic agent, (col. 6 line 57); and wherein the element comprises a detector is located upstream of the non-occlusive element (see figure 2A).

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 10, 80, 81 and 85 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 08/11/2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

As indicated above, Sites et al return of fluid back to the body after processing and removal of agents from the fluid, fits within the definition of selectively removing and returning to the body as defined in the specification of the instant application.
